

Weil and Bernanos Institute

Country: France

Weil and Bernanos Institute, a Higher Education association in Montpellier in the south of France. We have a variety of different courses and have links with a network of over 30000 students in the French Catholic Higher Education system. We have recognition from Ministers and Academic authorities and support of the local authorities within the Occitanie area. Montpellier is a dynamic, student centred city with a large population of international students. It offers a warm, sunny climate in the south of France with the possibility of learning French and thus becoming a polyglot and a valuable asset to the International community.
